

Omar's Page: Tropical Detective
A Logic Problem

Sergeant Madero, a detective, was vacationing in Cancun. He wanted to go snorkeling to see the beautiful tropical fish, especially the brightly colored parrotfish. Hearing that some had been spotted in a nearby coral reef, he asked four guides if they had seen them, but their answers were confusing. Determined to find out, he unpacked his portable infrared lie-detector and asked them again.

Here are the statements of the four guides.

Alfredo said: "I did not see it. Delio did."

Beto said: "Carlos did not see it. Alfredo did."

Carlos said: "Delio did not see it. I did."

Delio said: "Alfredo did not see it. Carlos did."

Each guide gave him one "true" and one "false" statement.

Which guide did Sergeant Madero hire?

Children Just Like Me
Institute of Texan Cultures
May 27-Sept. 5, 2004